

FLAP Canada

For Immediate Release: September 24, 2015

The Toronto Blue Jays Team & the Bird are Flying High!

Toronto – The buzz is in the air -- our Blue Jays team on a winning streak and the “jay, jay, jay” calls of the Blue Jay – the bird – in migration.

Photo: FLAP Canada

This lucky Blue Jay was rescued from a window collision at the Blue Jays Way and Front Street intersection in Toronto. After spending time in rehab, the Blue Jay was released back to the wild to continue migration.

Leading experts estimate over 1 million migratory birds die in collisions with windows in Toronto annually. There are simple, effective solutions that everyone can take to help prevent these needless deaths.

“Celebrate our Blue Jays team by also going to bat for their feathered mascot,” said Michael Mesure, FLAP Executive Director.

About FLAP (www.flap.org): FLAP Canada is working to safeguard migratory birds in the urban environment through education, policy development, research, rescue, and rehabilitation.

– 30 –

For more information, contact Michael Mesure, 416-366-3527 flap@flap.org